Adopted by the Board of Trustees, July 21, 2016
Dear Old Dega is more than Crimson and Blue...it is the Pride that runs through our veins and makes us one.... One Family! You may have spent your college years here, or you may be a lifelong TC fan. Generations of your family may have attended this great institution, or you may be the first in your family to hold a TC degree. You may have walked around these hallowed grounds as recently as yesterday, or it may have been years since your last visit. Whatever your connection is, the bond you share with TC is something special. These things bond us and make us family.

Since 1867, Dega has been pride and tradition. Our tradition of academic excellence and success is recognized nationwide. Though time has changed societies, communities and views, Dega pride and tradition continue to bind and define the Dega family. Because of your connection, Dega is the spirit that runs through each of us. No matter how far you are from campus, the Dega spirit in you continues to burn because of your continued strides and legacies. I hope this message compels and empowers you to feel a sense of loyalty because you are a part of something found only at Talladega College. It is the heartbeat of our family that flows as fond thoughts encroach your memory and remind you of what makes your connection to Dear Old Dega a treasured one.

There is strength in numbers when we all work to achieve a common goal. Let’s continue this pursuit of excellence by lending your financial support. Much is still needed to make OUR College a better place for future generations. Let’s join together in giving future generations a foundation such as that precious Talladega College degree on which you stand.

Remember Dear Old Dega is more than Crimson and Blue...It is your family. Let’s rekindle our memories, desires, and pride to ensure our family continues to grow!

The Beginning

In November 1865, two men of the community, William Savery and Thomas Tarrant, attended a Freedmen's Convention in Mobile, Alabama. Returning from that meeting they set to work with community families to carry out one of the convention resolutions: the education of their children.

With the help of Ambrose Headen, Harry Knox, Hilliard White, Savannah Cruikshank, James McCann, Lewis Jacobs, a few others, and their wives, who “stood nobly by them,” they opened a school in one room of a house to the east of the hilltop building that eventually became Swayne Hall. Leonard Johnson, a Negro teacher who in some way – despite the Alabama law of 1832 prohibiting Negro education – had learned the rudiments of reading and writing was put in charge. It quickly became necessary to add a night school and then to provide a larger building. Lumber was scarce, so the society purchased an old carpenter shop, tore it down and rebuilt it in a more usable form on a lot they had somehow secured. This was the first school house for Negro children in Talladega County. The building was constructed on land that became part of Talladega College, where DeForest Chapel currently stands.

The new school moved twice: from the one room of a home into a rebuilt carpenter’s shop; from there into the red brick building on the hill. Ambrose Headen and other enslaved workers of the 1850s had unknowingly made ready a building for the school in which their children could be educated.
The Historic Legacy Of Donor Giving At Talladega College

A major source of revenue for Talladega College since its founding in November 1867 has come from donor giving. Enabled by donations from the American Missionary Association, The Freedmen's Bureau, The Cleveland Aid Society and men and women of means from the northern states, the dream of former slaves to open a school in Talladega, Alabama from which no one is debarred because of race, religion, creed or color became a reality. Even after the college began operating, students were encouraged to contribute whatever they could afford, be it monetary donations, food from home or working in needed capacities to sustain the college’s operations. Many of the early buildings were given through the generosity of men and women who donated funds to build them. Seven of those buildings are still in use today.

- Swayne Hall (the college’s first building) was named for Alabama’s head of The Freedmen’s Bureau, General Wager Swayne and built in 1852-53 by slave labor.
- Foster Hall (currently under renovation and first dormitory for female students and teachers) was named for Reverend Lemuel Foster and built in 1869.
- Foy Cottage (currently under renovation and former industrial training site for young women) was named for Mrs. J. H. Foy and built in 1901.
- Goodnow Fine Arts Center (originally Goodnow Infirmary) was named for Mr. E. A. Goodnow and built in 1910.
- Seymour Hall (originally a dormitory for men) was named for Mr. Lyman Kay Seymour and built in 1923.
- Callanan Union Building (still serves its original purpose) was named for Dr. James Callanan and built in 1924.
- Fanning Refectory (the college dining facility) was named for Dr. David H. Fanning and built in 1927.

Impressed by the work of early administrators such as the first principal of the school, Reverend Henry Edwards Brown of Oberlin, Ohio, and the first college president, Dr. Henry Swift Deforest of Otsego County, New York, donors were encouraged to assist the college monetarily in many ways. Both men spent much of their summer breaks in the northern states canvassing friends and organizations as they sought funds to operate the college for the next school year.

Whether by individual gifts, planned gifts, or major gifts, the mission of our fundraising efforts is to fund student success initiatives and prepare students to provide the kind of service that will make communities better places in which to work and live. The college hopes to continue to inspire our donors by the successful outcomes of its graduates for it is through donor giving that the college is able to be the proud producer of world-class individuals whose stories of survival, service and growth are the greatest tribute to our donors during the past 150 years.

On the walls in the lobby of historic Savery Library, the epitaph of Earl Courtenay, Earl of Devonshire (d.1419) speaks to the heart of all donors:

What I gave I have,
What I spent I had,
What I saved I lost.

An Unwavering Promise
A Donor's Legendary Legacy
Jewel Plummer Cobb, Ph.D.
(January 17, 1924 – January 1, 2017)
Cell Biologist, Educator, College President

A Chicagoan by birth, a Talladegan by choice and a great trailblazing scientist and educator by calling, Dr. Jewel Isadora Plummer Cobb spent her lifetime in service to humankind. She wanted to make things better in all ways that she could. Her great-grandfather was a freed slave, her grandfather was a pharmacist, her father a physician and her mother a physical education and dance teacher. Her first choice of an undergraduate school was the University of Michigan where she enrolled in 1942 but opted to leave after her sophomore year because of the segregated housing arrangements for African American students. It was Talladega College's good fortune to attract her under the coercion of then dean of students, Dr. Hilda Davis. A young woman of exceptional intellect, she graduated with a Bachelor of Arts Degree in biology in 1945, a year ahead of schedule. As she moved into the graduate school phase of her life she was not discouraged when New York University denied her a fellowship to pursue a graduate degree in biology because she was African American. She politely went there, requested a personal interview with the administration and was granted the fellowship which allowed her to receive her master's degree in cell physiology in 1947 and the Ph.D. in the same field in 1950.

As the world awaited her brilliance, she performed. As a scientist she spent eons in the lab trying to find the relationship between melanin and skin damage and the effects of hormones, ultraviolet light and chemo agents on cell division. She ably directed the tissue culture lab at the University of Illinois and returned to New York University six years following the receipt of her doctorate to teach and continue her research. She also taught and conducted research at Sarah Lawrence College. Many honors were given her which included appearing on the cover of Time Magazine (Special Edition) for recognition as Scientist of the Year.

Her achievements as an academician/administrator were equal to her research work. She held professorships and deanships at Connecticut College and Rutgers University. Her work at Connecticut College and in the New London community earned her induction into the Connecticut Women's Hall of Fame in 2000. In 1981, she was appointed president of California State University at Fullerton and remained in that position until 1989. When she retired she was accorded emerita status. She pushed and encouraged young black women to pursue degrees and careers in the STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics) fields. In recognition of her superior work, she received twenty-two honorary degrees, one of which was the Doctor of Science degree presented by Talladega College during the May 1984 commencement exercises.

Although Dr. Cobb transitioned on January 1, 2017, her legacy is still speaking today. Through prior arrangements made by Dr. Cobb and fulfilled by her son, Dr. Jonathan Cobb, and Citigroup, Inc., the first installment of $100,000 for the Dr. Jewel Plummer Cobb Endowed Chair was received by Talladega College on June 26, 2017. The total designated for the Dr. Jewel Plummer Cobb Endowed Chair is $500,000. Dr. Jewel Plummer Cobb’s legacy as a very unique Talladegan is still speaking and will continue to speak for generations.

Dr. Jewel Isadora Plummer Cobb leaves her legacy as a hero.
